

Spirol Industries have been working with Highley Steel Limited for over 15 years, when we first approached Highley we were only looking for one particular high precision strip size that we were currently having many quality issues with our current material supplier.

I found Highley's professionalism, knowledge & experience to a very high standard, and this was only made better by the material that they supplied, a once problematic production job became one of our most efficient jobs on our machine, and this was due to the quality of the material.

We quickly realised that we had found a supplier that we could trust, not only on quality but also on price and lead time.

Highley Steel Limited is now our number 1 strategic supplier, it has been a pleasure working with Highley Steel and I look forward to many more successful years.
